PEACE PLEA A PALPABLE FAKE

To the extreme pacifists and those whose narrow vision prevents them from reading between the lines, the address by Prince Maximilian, Germany's new Chancellor, last Saturday, will be regarded as an olive branch, a penitent proposition for peace. The address was indeed a wail, but it was likewise adroit, and that it was calculated for the unwary was in all human probability the purpose of the Prince, no less than the monarchial beast for whom he was spokesman. It is noteworthy that during the very hour in which the new premier was voicing his country's desire for peace, German soldiery was perpetrating a form of savagery and vandalism never conceived of before in the whole history of the world; while the kaiser was issuing a separate statement to the world that he would fight to death except for a peace with "honor" to himself and to his people.

That the purpose of Maximilian's address was to deceive and thereby possibly secure a breathing spell for the wavering German army, will scarcely be doubted by anyone who has observed Germany's methods since the beginning of the war and of her disclosed treachery for the past half century. It may be said for Prince Maximilian that he is nominally regarded as a good German, and that present conditions in his country are to a certain extent antagonistic to his natural instincts. But that he is a tool of the whelp who appointed him, is undeniable, and in his supposititious plea for an abatement of hostilities, the voice is the voice of Jacob, but the hands are the hands of Esau.

The war is not over, nor will it be until the arch-fiend ruler of Germany and his ilk prostrate themselves at the footstool of an outraged world. Until that hour America has pledged no let-up to the outpouring of her blood and billions. The buying of Liberty Bonds will speed that glorious time.

WEEKLY NEWS NOTES BY COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT

The Northeastern Ohio Teachers' Association is scheduled to meet in Cleveland on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 25 and 26. Principals and superintendents having unsold tickets must return them at once that others who have not yet been supplied may have them.

Monthly report cards have been sent to Principals and Superintendents in general. Teachers in the one room rural schools may secure their cards from the respective principals or superintendents.

Teachers should look after cases of truancy and report them promptly, preferably first to the county superintendent.

As a result of our visits to the schools, the following suggestions would seem to be in place: the proper seating of pupils in many cases should be looked after. The desk should fit the child; the entering and leaving the building could, in many cases, be much improved. I do not believe in "the iron hand rule," but a reasonable plan of entering and leaving the building is important; the manners and deportment of pupils toward visitors and others needs attention. This is true of high school pupils as well as the other grades; more supervision should be in evidence at the noon hour.

This is a good time to exert some wholesome influence upon the pupils and teach some very valuable lessons; especially in good weather the pupils should all leave the building at intermissions and games should be engaged in. The teachers, while not playing, may introduce many new games from time to time and thus be of great service to the children and solve some of the disciplinary cases that arise; there are many indoor games, also, that may be used during inclement weather to the mutual advantage of both pupils and teachers. The building, itself, might derive a benefit from such procedure; ventilation needs more attention than it usually gets from teachers; this is practical sanitation and hygiene. Window shades should be adjusted to the degree of light and looked after at different times during the day. The shades should be in working order; pictures should be properly hung; those which are tilted to one side or the other might well be straightened; in a few instances the clocks might be hung where they could be wound and looked after, that they may indicate the proper time. The common drinking cup was found in several places. Merely to mention this ought to be sufficient; rooms could in many cases be greatly improved by a little thought on the part of teachers and pupils.

S. F. DIMMOCK, County Chairman.

your school a place where the adults may come together from time to time? This entails work and effort on your part, but it is worth it. Why not organize literary societies or the old-time spelling match?

Teachers, as you work in what to you seems a "small corner," remember that the parts make up the whole. You are doing an important work. You would like it better if you could sometimes see the whole county in action. Improvement must come everywhere, all along the line. Take these suggestions in the spirit in which they are given. We are to work together for the common good.

The monthly reports are coming in promptly, in some cases, however, without sufficient postage. This office prepaies all postage of out-going mail and expect that incoming mail likewise be prepaid in full.

COAL STOVES

In order to reduce our stock of small coal heaters we will sell a few of the famous Round Oak, Peninsular and Coles stoves at "before the war" prices. Here is our "bargain counter" for October.

	1918 Price	Bargain
No. 14 Round Oak, Square Base	$44.00	$32.00
No. 16 Round Oak, Round Base	43.00	32.00
No. 160 Round Oak, Double Burner	55.00	41.00
No. 18 Peninsular Hot Blast	40.00	30.00
No. 13 Coles Hot Blast	40.00	30.00

There are just an even dozen on the counter and if you want one, come in at once. If the predictions of the stove manufacturers amount to anything, and they ought to, as they make the stoves and set the prices, stoves will soon be as scarce as the proverbial "hen's teeth" and as high as the famous "Gilroy's Kite", but there are two things we all have to have: Liberty Bonds and Stoves. So after you buy that bond, come down and buy a stove, while the buying is good.

We have gas heaters from $6.00 to the sky, and plenty of second hand heaters which have been thoroughly overhauled and are in good condition.

MEDINA, O.

A YEAR'S SUPPLY OF FLOUR can now be procured by farmers who raise wheat enough to make that amount. When exchanging this wheat for flour farmers are merely required to sign a statement that the rules for substitutes are being observed by them. This puts the flour situation with farmers back to the pre-war times and it certainly will be appreciated by those who have been in the habit of putting in the winter's supply of flour in the fall. We can take care of your needs in this direction. At our mill on the Smith road we keep a big supply of flour and can supply whatever is needed in exchange for wheat. Our Magnificent flour is the best flour sold in this vicinity. It is made in one of the newest, brightest, cleanest mills in the United States and is a perfect product. Buy it.

FEED. The feed situation is rather easy now. We have been able lately to buy most anything we wanted.

HOG FEED. Flour middlings, Diamond Hog Meal, Ground barley (fine), ground oats, corn feed, corn meal, shelled corn.

WHEAT WANTED. We have a government contract for several thousand bushels of wheat for export. If you are selling your wheat now and have made no other arrangements for its disposition, we would be glad to have it for this contract.

WANTED. New crop Buckwheat right away.
